Abstract: Objective: To analyze the clinical effect of acupoint embedding and the addition and loss of irregular menstruation. Methods: From 2020 to 2022, 66 patients with irregular blood stasis were admitted as the subjects of this experiment. Through the principle of random allocation, the single peach four mixture soup was treated as the control group, and the specific efficacy of the two groups of the patients was compared. Results: After treatment, the total response rate was 87.88% and 69.7% in the control group (P <0.05). In addition, the experimental group of TCM symptom score was significantly lower than the control group, and the difference was statistically significant (P <0.05). Finally, the treatment satisfaction in the experimental group was also significantly higher than that in the control group, with a statistically significant difference (P <0.05). Conclusion: Acupoint embedding with peach and red four medicine soup has a very good effect on blood stasis type menstruation irregular, and can effectively improve the clinical symptoms of patients, so it is worth promoting.
